WEDNESDAY, JULY 25, 1906.

SENATOR TILLMAM COMING,

Will Speak at Buena Vista Park, Anderson, August 2. Senator B. R. Tiliman will speak at Buena Vista Park in this city on Thursday, Aug. 2.

The people of Anderson and sur-rounding country have been wanting to hear the pitchfork Senator for some time, and now that they will have a chance to hear him again, it goes without saying that a tremendous crowd will be present on that occa-

The Traction Company has offered the Park for the occasion and the speaking will take place in the grove. In case of rain the auditorium will be used. The east side of the Park will be open to vehicles and the whole thing will be open to the public free of charge.

Senator Latimer will also speak that day and he will draw a big crowd.
Congressman Wyatt Aiken and Solicitor Julius E. Boggs have been invited to address the people on the same occasion and no doubt will avail themselves of the opportunity. Solicitor Boggs wants to represent the third district in Congress and he is pushing his candidacy for all he is worth.
Mr. Boggs has many friends in Anderson and they will give him a rousing son and they will give him a rousing reception. Congressman Aiken would like to represent the third district again and his friends will have a chance to hear him on the subject. This same trio will speak at Seneca Oconee County, Tuesday, July 31.

Anderson's New Mayor.

Capt. P. K. McCully, Sr., has been busy since his nomination for mayor in the primary last week answering letters of congratulation from his letters of congratulation from his friends in every section of the State, but states that he is losing no time in getting his business affairs in shape that he can give his best efforts to the office of mayor when he is formally inaugurated.

Having been so closely identified with the business interests of the city during a long and useful career as a merchant and cotton buyer the har-with the business interests of the city during a long and useful career as a merchant and cotton buyer the harness will fit the new mayor very becomingly and naturally for he has been in harness for the development of the city and county ever since his majority and it will be no awkward position for him to be in when he is inducted into office. In conversation with him on the result of the slection, he paid the following tribute to these who opposed his election and the manner in which he said it left no doubt on his hearers as to he sincerity. He said: "I have nothing but the very kindest feelings for Maj, Paul E. Ayer who was my opponent and who I have reason to believe made a fair and square race. While I am naturally indebted to my friends for their hearty support, I also want to say that I have the beat and most friendly wishes for those who voted against, me believing as I do that it was due to their friendahip for my opponent and 1 ot through personal opposition to myself."

Frank and Dick in the Parade.

The two bautiful fire horses that draw the heavy H. & L. Truck, won the admiration of everybody at the tournament in Asheville. This was the first tournament that Dick, the calico horse, ever entered, but his mate, Frank, the big gray, is a veteran, having been in several tournaments. He seems to know that he is a beauty and when he gets in a parade he does not fail to prance and show off generally—or in other words he has got the "big head." Frank enjoys a trip off on the care, and seems to take as much interest in the races as the firemen. It is fine fun to him to hear the gong ring at his heels and he readily understands that it means for him to pick up his feet a little faster. He was put in the service of the fire department at the service of four years and partment at the age of four years and has answered to the fire bell for the last eight years. When he reaches the age limit and is put out of commission he deserves to be turned in green pastures for the balance of his days.

An Asheville lady took a photograph of the team as it came down the race track and secured a good picture. The photograph was transferred to souvenir postal cards and they are now on sale in the stores at Asheville. Some of the souvenirs have been received in Anderson and they are very pretty

Hon. Julius E. Boggs Opens Up.

A correspondent of the Keowee Courier writes as follows:

"About 600 people gathered at Hunneutt's Bridge on July 4th to hear Hon. J. E. Boggs soar off on the wings of oratory, like an eagle in the serial world, his melodious voice echoing from the cold regions of the north to the magnolia breezes on the south. The longer he spoke he seemed to grow deeper and more eloquent. His eloquence and self-magnetism seemed to captivate the entire audience." A correspondent of the Keowee cloquence and self-magnetism seemed to captivate the entire audience."

Solicitor Boggs is a candidate for Congress from this district, and he will be heard in Anderson August 2nd at Buena Vista Park. Mr. Roggs is an eloquent speaker and the people of Anderson County will be on hand to hear him when he speaks here.

Death of Col. Mike Dickson.

'Let's go home!" "Let's go home!"
These may have been the words of a delirious mind—may be they came from a soul conscious of its flight. Sometime we'll understand. But they marked the close of the life of a gallant colding a roble citizen, a true friend. soldier, a noble citizen, a true friend. Michael Calvin Dickson died shortly after noon Thursday at his home in Pendleton.

"Colonel Mike Dickson," as he was

"Colonel Mike Dickson," as he was familiarly known, was born near Pendleton, Anderson County, South Carolina, January 27, 1841. He was a son of Themas Dickson, who with his brother, Rev. Michael Dickson, an eminent divine of the Presbyterian faith, moved from Abbeville county to Pendleton in 1840. His mother was a daughter of Gen. Scott, of Revolutionary fame. He was educated in the ary fame. He was educated in the Pendleton High School under the noted Prof. W. J. Ligon. He was prepared to enter Davidson College when he answered a call in defense of the Confederacy. He enlisted in the Fourth South Carolina Volunteers where he served for the first twelve months, after which he joined the cavalry under Gen Hamptonia.

months, after which he joined the cavalry under Gen. Hampton's command. Through his bravery and efficiency he was given a Lieutenacy and during the illness of his Captain, John C. Calhoun, he served in the capacity of Captain.

Valiant, self-poised; he was never known to shirk his duty. From the First Manassas until within nine days of the war's close, Lieutenaut Dickson did not miss one engagement in which his company or troop participated. At the Battle of Fayettville, North Carolins, however, with seven sabre cuts, wounded in his side and hip, he was dragged from his horze and left unconscious upon the field.

After the war Colonel Dickson returned to Pendleton where he engaged in merchandising for a number of years. Piscontinuing this, he took up agricultural pursuits and at the time of his death he owned several fine plantations.

(From Saturday's Daily Mail.)

Today is the forty-fifth anniversary of the First Battle of Manassas. The battle was fought on Sunday, July 21, 1861.

The Palmetto Riffemen, the famous military company in which most of the young men of Anderson enlisted at the outbreak of the war, was in this battle. The survivors always remember the anniversary of the battle, for it was the first fight in which they were engaged. It was their baptism of fire, so to speak.

Mr. J. F. Clinkscales, the veteran

editor of the Anderson Intelligencer, was a member of the company. He was asked this morning if he could give the names of those now living in Anderson who were in this battle. "I would be afraid to undertake to do so," he said, "for it was a long time age, and naturally I might not be able to remember all who were there. Wilton Earle and A. D. Brown, members of the company, were killed in the fight, and S. J. Slowman, James Earle, A. P. Hubbard and J. R. Cochran, Sr. were wounded. It was our first fight, and, of course, those of us who were in it have always remembered it. We couldn't forget if we tried. "It would not do, of course, to say that any of us were scared, but we were all more or less excited, and more of us were very nervous. We had to go down a hillskie to get into the fight. We were halted and or-dered to fix bayonets, and when we started down the hill the tension was very high. One of the men some-how rammed his gun between the legs of Tom Magill—poor fellow, he's dead now—and Magill took a header and started rolling down the hill. He began protesting as soon as he start-ed falling—didn't wait until he got up to make his objections. He turned several somersaults, and as he went down the hill he was jabbering excitedly. "Dang you," he yelled, "I'm no dinged Yankee. Why are you trying to kill me?"

"It was very funny, and although the was year funny, and although the way good to see the seed of the

we were going into our first fight, and our nerves were all wrought up, all of us laughed long and heartily. And I believe that very thing saved a great many of us. It turned our thoughts to something else, and en-abled us to get a fresh grip on our nerves, and we went into the fight in good shape. It was a terribly hot day—the weather, I mean, outside of the battle. I shall never forget it."

Mr. Clinkscales gazed off into the distance and smiled reminiscently. "War was a terrible thing," he said, "and I don't want to be in another one. The soldiers had a hard time of it, and yet we had a good time of it in many ways. We had lots of fun.
We were all young then, and we took life easy. It was a hard life, but we made the best of it. No man who was in the war regrets his experience, but I have never seen an old sol dier who wanted to be in another

Besides Mr. Clinkscales there are number of other veterans now living in Anderson who were members of the Palmetto Riflemen and in the battle. Messrs. Wood A. Fant, A. H. Osborne, R. L. Keys are among the number, and there are no doubt others whose names could not be recalled by Mr. Clinkscales this morning. There are many veterans who be-of Honca Path was a lieutenant in the company, and it now the only surviving commissioned officer.

Mr. W. R. Hammand of Williston Fla., is a survivor of the company. He is now in Anderson on a visit to his sisters, Mrs. S. Dieckley and Mrs. L. ence, but I have never seen an old col-Gaillard. Mr. Hammond brought to The Daily Mail office today a small fron china plate, which he picked up on the battlefield after the battle was over. It had been carried by a Fed-eral soldier. Mr. Hammond carried the plate through the war until 1864, when he came home on a furlough. The plate was cracked once, but was cemented together, and is as serviceable today as '; was when Mr. Hammond found it 45 years ago this afternoon.

Blabtown News.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Allgood have returned from their trip to Texas and Indian Territory, feeling all the better from their visit to their married children in those States. They report crops as generally poor, there has been too much rain, which has caused cotton to die out badly on sandy soil, and brought such a beat of grass in other places that it was impossible to cleap the crops.

This section has been visited with excessive rains in the last two weeks which has greatly delayed the last working of crops. If from this date, 39-2, the rains cease, it will be lat of August before any plowing can be fone. But while it rains crops are growing and the farmers are resting and eating fruit and melons.
